4 OHIO HUNTERS MEET DEATH OPENING DAY

U.S. Gives Reply To French on Tunisian Aid

Paris Told America Would Be 'Delighted' If She Handled Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials said today they would be delighted if France would take over the task of providing guns to Tunisia on terms acceptable to the Tunisian government.

The possibility of working out a formula to meet Tunisia's further arms needs appeared to offer the best hope of closing the split between Washington, London and Paris over this issue in advance of next month's North Atlantic summit conference.

Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are scheduled to meet here Tuesday for a discussion of NATO problems and the Tunisian controversy.

French Premier Felix Gaillard said in Paris Friday that the December NATO meeting in the French capital, which President Eisenhower plans to attend, will fail to achieve its aims unless the Tunisian arms issue is settled to the satisfaction of France.

American officials were not certain a settlement is possible. They said, for example, that there is no way of undoing what has already been done. Within the last two days Britain and the United States have delivered to Tunisia close to 1,000 guns and many thousands of rounds of ammunition.

THIS ACTION was taken in spite of angry French protests that such weapons, moving to Tunisia without any control by France, might find their way across the border into the hands of Algerian rebels fighting French troops. U. S. officials discount that possibility but concede that the issue presents great domestic political difficulties for the French government.

The governments involved, however, are not dealing with a closed situation. The U. S. announcement Thursday of a decision to send arms to Tunisia, in cooperation with Britain, said this was "an initial response" to President Habib Bourguiba's request for help.

The decision was justified on the ground that Bourguiba is strongly pro-Western, but that if he did not receive weapons from Western sources he would be forced to turn to Soviet Communist suppliers.

Officials here stress that the United States intends to live up to its commitment to see that Bourguiba gets the weapons he needs for defense.

Before the U. S.-British decision of Thursday both governments negotiated with the French for many weeks to try to get them to handle the arms deal. The United States first understood that Gaillard would supply the arms if Bourguiba was willing to take them only from France and to guarantee that they would not get into Algeria.

When Bourguiba rejected this, the United States pressed France to drop its conditions. Officials here say they understood that at one point Gaillard agreed to do so, but then changed his mind.

Boy, 15, Admits 'Urge' To Kill

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Juvenile officers stood guard today over 15-year-old John Lawrence Miller, who has admitted smothering a baby girl because "I always wanted to kill somebody."

The youth, a reform school fugitive, was booked Friday night on suspicion of murder.

His capture in Reno, Nev., Friday ended a widespread search that began shortly after the body of 22-month-old Laura Helen Wetzel was found in a neighbor's home Monday.

Teamster Boss Given Chance To Testify Before Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate racketeers today offered Bernie Adelstein, a Teamsters Union boss, a chance to answer charges linking him with violence and Mafia mobsters in New York's garbage hauling industry.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, told newsmen "Adelstein says he's going to talk." Kennedy added that he has recordings of some wire taped telephone conversations to use as "refreshers" in quizzing Adelstein, business manager and boss of the Garbage Men's Local No. 813.

Kennedy said Adelstein would be asked to reply to testimony that he had threatened the life of John Acropolis, another Teamster official, three weeks before Acropolis was shot to death in a bitter 1952 feud involving unionists, garbage haulers and gangsters. Acropolis' death was linked to the Mafia.

In New York, U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams described the Acropolis meeting as a further indication of a criminal syndicate operating on a national scale.

The men involved said they were only visiting a sick friend. They were questioned, then released.

Testimony about threats to Acropolis was received Tuesday from Ed Doyle, who succeeded Acropolis as president of Teamsters Local 456 in Westchester County, N. Y. Doyle said he believed the murder of Acropolis, whom he described as "tough but honest," was the result of a fight among hoodlums and unions for control of the $50 million-a-year New York garbage industry.

Two stolen cars were recovered by Cincinnati Police last night. One of the cars, taken from the rear of Fairmont's restaurant, W. Main St., was owned by Mrs. Mary Funk, 118 W. High St. The other, stolen from the rear of Son's Grill, was owned by James Wallis, 139 W. High St.

Both cars were recovered by Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolman Max Forquer. One was found parked on W. Franklin St. and the other at Scioto and Pinckney Sts.

Police said Claude Godby, 116 Pinckney St., reported that a shotgun and box of shells were taken from his car last night.

The huge reptile escaped from a roadside alligator farm just east of Mesa Friday night.

Police and volunteers were to start a search of the area at daybreak. Several housing developments are located nearby, but some of the area is undeveloped desert land.

Jack Adams, owner of the wildlife farm, said "I believe the worst that can happen is that 'Big Ben' may raid a chicken coop. If he does, I will gladly pay for the chickens he eats."

ICBM Interceptor Hinted Assured

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force says a scientific team is probing the possibility of nuclear explosions in space as a possible weapon against intercontinental missiles.

An announcement from Kirtland Air Force Base, N. M., Friday night said a group of 16 scientists is near "a major scientific breakthrough, the key to America's defense against an intercontinental ballistic missile."

Col. McPherson Morgan, head of the group, declined to say whether such a blast might be used to knock out an ICBM. But he said: "There are several interesting phenomena of a nuclear explosion, and some are more affected by the presence of air than others."

"We feel that we have ways of destroying nuclear and non-nuclear rockets out in space."

Pentagon officials had no immediate comment. Maj. Gen.

A. R. Lueddecke, who will conduct the U. S. nuclear tests in the Pacific next year, also declined comment. Lt. Col. Carlo Tosti of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command said in Baltimore he was "sure such information is classified."

DISCLOSURE of the Kirtland project followed by a few hours the announcement by Secretary of Defense McElroy that he was creating a special new post to coordinate space-age "weapons projects of the future" including anti-missile missiles.

McElroy disclosed plans for the new job in a news conference Friday at which he also said that at next month's NATO meeting in Paris, the United States will seek agreements for advance missile bases overseas.

He said the United States wants to locate intermediate range ballistic missiles, those with a reach of 1,500 miles, on foreign bases within range of "our prospective enemy," meaning Russia.

McElroy conceded "at it seems rather obvious that we are behind the Russians" in missile and satellite development. But, he added, the United States "can close the gap and do even better."

McElroy also announced that his missile assistant, William M. Holaday, was being given expanded authority and the new title of director of missiles.

Shortly after the McElroy conference, the Air Force disclosed that its intercontinental missile, the Snark, delivered a simulated hydrogen warhead on a target 5,000 miles from its launching.

The announcement said the missile streaked to its target "with unprecedented accuracy" in an Oct. 31 test.

"The flight was the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability," the Air Force statement said.

The Snark, now in production for the Strategic Air Command, is a swept-wing weapon which operates at about the speed of sound.

Man Wounded Slightly In Hunting Scrape

A hunter was slightly injured by a shotgun pellet as the result of a hunting and shooting scrape yesterday, the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department reported today.

According to Deputy Charles Felkey, Gary Bowman, Blacklick, was struck in the right leg by a pellet after he and other members of his hunting party allegedly were found hunting without permission on the John Fellenstein farm, Route 1, New Holland.

The shot supposedly was fired by John Wright, tenant on the farm, the deputy said.

According to Felkey, Bowman, a brother, John, Robert Rutherford, Granville Tullies and Leo and Gerald Mannon, all of Blacklick, were hunting on the Bennett Junk farm, near New Holland. They allegedly crossed onto the Fellenstein farm and were discovered by Wright.

THE hunters said Wright approached them firing a shotgun, one of the pellets striking Bowman. They said Wright also took their hunting licenses.

Deputy Felkey is continuing the investigation.

2 Horsemen Start 158-Mile Race Against 2 Footmen

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Two Western horsemen and two foot-racers started a 158-mile race Friday to see who is the fastest over a long haul—man or beast.

The race started from a Salt Lake City street intersection at 12:45 p. m. (EST). It will end at Roosevelt, in east central Utah, some time tonight.

Cold, snowy weather was forecast. The route will cross one 8,000-foot mountain pass and several lesser summits.

Footracers are Albert Ray, 24, of New York and Terry Jensen, 18, of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Horsemen are Roy Hrtch, 71-year-old cowboy, and Ray Hall, 18, an oil field worker, both from Roosevelt, Utah.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hobbling in to court on crutches, Mrs. Phyllis Lamm, 22, was awarded a divorce from Cecil Lamm, 24, after testifying her truck driver husband, among other things, made her cook his meals and iron his shirts while she was in a wheel chair with both legs and her pelvis broken after being hit by a car.

Air Force Pooh-Poohs Tales Of Recent Odd Sky Objects

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has pooh-poohed five recent reports of strange lights and unusual objects in the sky.

Investigators labeled one of the cases a "hoax" and said the others were misunderstandings of natural phenomena.

The hoax tag was pinned on a story told by a Kearney, Neb., man, who said he toured a space ship manned by a German-speaking crew.

"Investigation revealed that local officials consider originator wholly unreliable," the Air Force said in a report issued Friday.

The Nebraska man who told the space ship story now is undergoing psychiatric examination.

The Air Force said another person in the same area reported his automobile stalled. It added, however, that a mechanic said work had recently been done on the car, and that part of an old engine rotor could have caused the engine failure.

THE OTHER cases involved a big glowing object said to have been seen touching ground near Levelland, Tex., and to have caused automobiles to stall; similar reports from near Alamogordo, N. M.; bright lights reported seen by a Coast Guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico, and by military police, in White Sands, N. M.

More Signs For Bypass?

Darrell Hatfield, secretary of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, along with President Dave McDonald and Charles Schieber, met with an official of the Ohio State Department of Highways to discuss additional signs on the Route 23 by-pass.

Recommendations for a sign denoting the Circleville business district at the south entrance of the by-pass as well as another 19 by 6 foot sign next to the one already erected, for north bound traffic, will be forwarded to highway headquarters in Delaware.

The possibility of a sign at the north entrance of the by-pass was rejected because it would require south bound traffic to cross over the north bound land, creating a hazard.

Schools Get Bulk Of State Funds

COLUMBUS (AP)—Schools got the lion's share of the $484 million distributed to local governments and individuals by the state in the last fiscal year.

This was shown Friday in the annual report covering the book-keeping year, which saw $114 billion flow into Ohio's treasury, ended June 30.

Schools got nearly $182 million, local governments $162½ million, poor relief and other welfare programs about $135 million, and pension funds, tuberculosis hospitals and other purposes almost $5 million.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration reportedly plans to ask Congress for $4.2 billion in foreign aid funds next year, about $1.4 billion more than it was able to get this year.

Informed sources said this initial estimate of aid requirements was sent to the Budget Bureau.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Representatives of 14 United Auto Workers locals, meeting here Wednesday, will be asked to simultaneously strike the Ford Motor Co., idling 140,000 employees.

At Least 7 Others Hurt By Buckshot

Only One Fatality Blamed on Guns; 2 Men's Hearts Fail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio hunters swarmed into the fields Friday as the small game season opened.

For at least four hunters the season ended that same day. One accidentally shot and killed himself. Two others suffered fatal heart attacks. And one was killed in the collision of two autos while occupants, including two who were injured, were en route to hunting grounds.

At least seven others will carry scars of the hunting season for the rest of their lives as the result of buckshot wounds.

For one Summit County hunter it was a day of landing big game, although quite unintentionally. Fred J. Baninger, 34, of Twinsburg, came home with a 100-pound spiked buck and $250 damage to his car, the result of the deer running into the auto's path near Findlay.

Baninger at least got out into the fields; he also bagged a pheasant and two rabbits.

The one fatal shooting killed a Scioto County man. The victim, 28-year-old Sherman Wright of Rt. 1, Wheelersburg, father of two, was hunting on a farm three miles southeast of Pandora in Putnam County.

Sheriff Arnold Potts said Wright, accompanied by six Portsmouth men, apparently stumbled and dropped his 12-gauge shotgun. It went off, the pellets striking him just below the ribs. The sheriff said the safety mechanism on the shotgun apparently was defective.

The two heart attack victims were Floyd Mace, 66, Dayton, and John R. Teach, 67, Rt. 4, Terre Haute, Champaign County. Mace was stricken while hunting near DeGraff in Logan County. Teach collapsed after returning from the fields to lunch. He had been hunting near his home.

Killed in the collision of two cars on Ohio 305, about 3½ miles north of Warren, was Floyd H. Frederick, 64, of Warren. Frederick, his passenger Earl Logue, 64, Warren, and the driver of the other car, David Boyce, 25, of Cleveland, all were en route to hunting areas, the State Highway Patrol said.

LOGAN AND Boyce both were injured and taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Warren. Logue, with head and internal injuries, was reported in poor condition.

The Montgomery County sheriff's department is investigating the shooting of the chief of Dayton detectives. Lt. Richard C. Grumbish was wounded when he was shot in the back with a .22 caliber rifle bullet while hunting with two companions.

Other wounded included: Charles Humphrey, 37, Greensburg, hit in the mouth by a stray shotgun pellet near Canton.

Harold Brunner, 30, Rt. 1, East Sparta, hit in the nose and arm by stray pellets near Canton.

Larry Clelland, 21, of near Bloomingburg, shot himself in the right leg after his gun jammed, then discharged. The accident happened in Fayette County.

Anthony Truax, 18, and James Houtz, 20, both of Toledo, peppered with shotgun pellets in a field in Lucas County.

Dean L. McBride, 27, Mansfield, shot in the right shoulder by his hunting companion, who slipped from a log. The accident happened near Mansfield.

Eugene Clayton, 33, Bucyrus, received about 50 pellets of buckshot in the back of his hips and legs when he was shot accidentally by his stepfather, Bernard W. Bucyrus.

Hunter Gets Bird Without A Shot

Tom Smith of Columbus got his quarry even before he started hunting.

Smith, 32, purchased his hunting license in Circleville Friday and was driving his car toward Washington C. H. Suddenly a rooster pheasant crashed through the right side of his windshield and splattered his face with glass. Although unhurt, Smith remarked: "I have my license and my game. I think I'll just stay home."

George Pfifer of North Little Rock was fined $13.25 on a charge of defacing a state tag. He said he was just prettying up his car when he painted his tag pink.

43 Britons Die as Big Plane Falls

NEWPORT, Isle of Wight, England (AP)—A flaming British flying boat plummeted into a wooded hillside here Friday night, killing 43 of 58 persons aboard.

The four-engine Solent, owned by British Aquila Airways, developed engine trouble and crashed shortly after it took off from Southampton for Lisbon, Portugal, with 50 passengers and a crew of 8. Many of the passengers were beginning vacations.

An Aquila spokesman said the 43 persons killed were believed to include all the crewmen.

All survivors were taken to a hospital, five seriously injured and the other 10 slightly hurt.

A spokesman for the Civil Aviation Ministry said the pilot had radioed he was turning back to Southampton because one engine failed. He apparently crashed about 15 minutes later. The plane had set out in cloudy weather.

Trees were set ablaze where the big plane dropped on this popular resort island in the English Channel across a stretch of water also named the Solent from Southampton on the mainland. Soldiers, firemen, farmers and police pulled survivors and burned bodies from the flaming wreckage.

The first man to reach the wreckage, scattered over an area 100-yards wide, was Harry Tyrrell, a shepherd employed by author J. B. Priestley.

Victim of 'Cancer' Discovers Strange Quirk in His Life

As he told it to Asst. Dist. Atty. Frank Shaw, this is the story of Edward Clayton O'Neill, 52:

He wanted to leave them something. He had two customers of his employer make out $7,225 in deposit checks for properties.

Phone Union Presenting Bell Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—Union attorneys will resume argument Monday in a federal hearing on a Communications Workers of America (CWA) request for an injunction against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The union asks a court order to force the company to comply with terms of a new contract worked out before striking CWA workers returned to their jobs Oct. 1. The workers went back under terms of the old contract pending further negotiations on a strike termination agreement.

Ohio Bell has refused to sign the new contract until the union has signed the termination agreement. Martin J. Hughes, Ohio director of the CWA, testified in Friday's court session that the company never mentioned such an agreement prior to the union's acceptance Sept. 30 of the company offer. He said that when the union accepted the offer brought from the company by T. W. Robertson, federal labor conciliator, Robertson said: "Good, now we have a contract."

He testified also that seniority on term of employment and other rights of Ohio Bell employees are jeopardized by failure of the company to make effective the agreement which preceded the strike ending.

No witnesses were presented by company attorneys.

Air Force Pooh-Poohs Tales Of Recent Odd Sky Objects

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has pooh-poohed five recent reports of strange lights and unusual objects in the sky.

Investigators labeled one of the cases a "hoax" and said the others were misunderstandings of natural phenomena.

The hoax tag was pinned on a story told by a Kearney, Neb., man, who said he toured a space ship manned by a German-speaking crew.

"Investigation revealed that local officials consider originator wholly unreliable," the Air Force said in a report issued Friday.

The Nebraska man who told the space ship story now is undergoing psychiatric examination. The Air Force said another person in the same area reported his automobile stalled. It added, however, that a mechanic said work had recently been done on the car, and that part of an old engine rotor could have caused the engine failure.

THE OTHER cases involved a big glowing object said to have been seen touching ground near Levelland, Tex., and to have caused automobiles to stall; similar reports from near Alamogordo, N. M.; bright lights reported seen by a Coast Guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico, and by military police, in White Sands, N. M.

The Air Force said the automobiles stalled likely were caused by thunderstorms soaking ignition systems.

It said that one report involved a glowing object hundreds of feet long supposed to have been seen by dozens of people in Texas. Investigators found only three persons who saw the light. The others said thunderstorms were raging at the time.

The phenomenon was believed to be "ball lightning" or "St. Elmo's fire." The report said the storm which caused these electrical conditions might account for the automobiles stalling.

Investigation of the Coast Guard sightings indicated that three objects had been recorded by radar and one sighted visually. The Air Force said some of the radar returns indicated contact in opposite directions almost simultaneously, suggesting an echo effect which sometimes gives false radar returns. Investigators said aircraft and possibly radar echoes accounted for the sightings.

The White Sands sightings, the report went on, apparently are explainable by the planet Venus in an unusually favorable position for observation, and cloud formations around the moon.

Kindergarten Science Study Being Urged

OXFORD (AP)—The teaching of science, even in the kindergarten, is being proposed by the Ohio Science Education Assn.

An integration of science principles into all grades from kindergarten to high school was included in a six-point program proposed by the association here Friday.

A. F. Forance of Sharonville, chairman of the conference, suggested that college science may have to be put into the high schools and high school science into the elementary schools as a means of meeting future demands in science and technology.

"We should put teaching of science in the elementary grades and even in kindergarten in the hands of science teachers in special science classes," Forance said.

George Probst of New York, executive secretary of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, told the group that Russia is using "a hard boiled system in which the penalty of flunking is much worse than in this country where the flunkout still has an opportunity."

"We have talked some about the fact that Russia graduated more engineers than we did last year," he said. "The fact is that Russia is educating greater numbers of people than we are and sending them to school six days a week, 220 days a year instead of our five short days, 180 a year. The United States is not any longer educating a high percentage of its citizens than any other nation."

At Least 7 Others Hurt By Buckshot

Only One Fatality Blamed on Guns; 2 Men's Hearts Fail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio hunters swarmed into the fields Friday as the small game season opened.

For at least four hunters the season ended that same day. One accidentally shot and killed himself. Two others suffered fatal heart attacks. And one was killed in the collision of two autos while occupants, including two who were injured, were en route to hunting grounds.

At least seven others will carry scars of the hunting season for the rest of their lives as the result of buckshot wounds.

For one Summit County hunter it was a day of landing big game, although quite unintentionally. Fred J. Baninger, 34, of Twinsburg, came home with a 100-pound spiked buck and $250 damage to his car, the result of the deer running into the auto's path near Findlay.

Baninger at last got out into the fields; he also bagged a pheasant and two rabbits.

The one fatal shooting killed a Scioto County man. The victim, 28-year-old Sherman Wright of Rt. 1, Wheelersburg, father of two, was hunting on a farm three miles southeast of Pandora in Putnam County.

Sheriff Arnold Potts said Wright, accompanied by six Portsmouth men, apparently stumbled and dropped his 12-gauge shotgun. It went off, the pellets striking him just below the ribs. The sheriff said the safety mechanism on the shotgun apparently was defective.

The two heart attack victims were Floyd Mace, 66, Dayton, and John R. Teach, 67, Rt. 4, Terre Haute, Champaign County. Mace was stricken while hunting near DeGraff in Logan County. Teach collapsed after returning from the fields to lunch. He had been hunting near his home.

Killed in the collision of two cars on Ohio 305, about 3½ miles north of Warren, was Floyd H. Frederick, 64, of Warren. Frederick, his passenger Earl Logue, 64, Warren, and the driver of the other car, David Boyce, 25, of Cleveland, all were en route to hunting areas, the State Highway Patrol said.

LOGAN AND Boyce both were injured and taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Warren. Logue, with head and internal injuries, was reported in poor condition.

The Montgomery County sheriff's department is investigating the shooting of the chief of Dayton detectives. Lt. Richard C. Grumbine was wounded when he was shot in the back with a .22 caliber rifle bullet while hunting with two companions.

Other wounded included: Charles Humphrey, 37, Greensburg, hit in the mouth by a stray shotgun pellet near Canton.

Harold Brunner, 30, Rt. 1, East Sparta, hit in the nose and arm by stray pellets near Canton.

Larry Clelland, 21, of near Bloomington, shot himself in the right leg after his gun jammed, then discharged. The accident happened in Fayette County.

Anthony Truax, 18, and James Houtz, 20, both of Toledo, peppered with shotgun pellets in a field in Lucas County.

Dean L. McBride, 27, Mansfield, shot in the right shoulder by his hunting companion, who slipped from a log. The accident happened near Mansfield.

Eugene Clayton, 33, Bucyrus, received about 50 pellets of buckshot in the back of his hips and legs when he was shot accidentally by his stepfather, Bernard W. Waf, Bucyrus.

Hunter Gets Bird Without A Shot

Tom Smith of Columbus got his quarry even before he started hunting.

Smith, 32, purchased his hunting license in Circleville Friday and was driving his car toward Washington C. H. Suddenly a rooster pheasant crashed through the right side of his windshield and splattered his face with glass. Although unharmed, Smith remarked:

"I have my license and my game. I think I'll just stay home."

Airmen Elated By Snark Test

Missile Hits Target 5,000 Miles Distant

CHICAGO (AP)—The Air Force has disclosed that its intercontinental guided missile, the Snark, recently carried a simulated hydrogen warhead to a target 5,000 miles from its launching point.

The announcement Friday termed the Oct. 31 test flight "the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability" and said the Snark hit "with unprecedented accuracy."

Its announcement, the Air Force said, described a test flight mentioned briefly by President Eisenhower in his "state of science" address last week.

The pilotless, swept-wing bomber, capable of speeds bracketing the speed of sound, flew from Cape Canaveral, Fla., test center to an ocean target near Ascension Island in the south Atlantic.

Although it flew at an altitude of 45,000 feet, the announcement said, this was far below the missile's maximum capability. The report added that the Snark demonstrated its evasive tactics.

HERE IS HOW the Air Force described the flight:

Prior to the launching orders were fed into a self-contained, nonjamming guidance system. Following a jet-assisted takeoff, the Snark soared into the sky and in the very early stages of flight passed beyond the cognizance range of the Air Force's missile station at Cape Canaveral.

Beamed to stations in the West Indies, the missile arched over picket ships. Finally, in a terminal strike precisely monitored by a new station at Ascension Island, it delivered a warhead onto a tiny ocean target.

Aid to Twin To Cost Flier Pilot's Career

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Lt. Sam Merriman knows now that surgery transplanting one of his kidneys to a gravely ill twin probably will keep him from becoming an Air Force pilot, just as he feared.

His status as a student flier was clarified Friday by a statement from flight training officials at Randolph Air Force Base here.

Merriman, 26, had offered to resign his commission the day before, as dictated by regulations, but Secretary of the Air Force James Douglas said regulations would be waived.

The young officer planned to go ahead with an operation, probably next month, transferring a kidney to his twin brother Billy, now in the Veterans Hospital at Oklahoma City. Doctors say it is necessary to save Billy's life.

Randolph authorities, in clarifying the lieutenant's status, said he may keep his commission as an Air Force reservist but will be relieved of active duty, and therefore will be dropped from the Texas Air National Guard.

They explained that official directives forbid flight training for an individual who voluntarily loses a vital organ, and Merriman's Guard affiliation hinges on completion of his current one-year duty training and assignment.

$50 Million In Road Jobs Up for Bids

COLUMBUS (AP)—Road contractors today are calculating bids they will submit for $50 million worth of state highway construction. The bids will be opened Nov. 26.

The Ohio Department of Highways said the total value of the 16 projects including construction, engineering and right-of-way costs is the largest of any group of projects for which bids were opened the same day. Sixty-eight miles of roads and 32 bridges are involved.

Eleven months ago the department opened bids on projects having a total value of $42 million. Last June 25 bids were opened on $38 million worth of projects.

The projects include nearly 12 miles of roadway for the Cincinnati to Conneaut Freeway, the east approach to the Inland bridge in Cleveland, the Third Street Viaduct and a section of the Sandusky Street Expressway in Columbus, the Paddock Road-Central Parkway section of the Millcreek Expressway and the first leg of the Norwood Lateral, both in the Cincinnati area and another section of the Kirtsville-Heron Relief Route (U. S. 40) in Licking County.

The department since the first of the year will have placed nearly $200 million worth of projects under contract. This compares with $158 million worth for the corresponding period last year.

Segregationist Given Another Prison Term

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor told John Kasper he must have respect for the law, then sentenced the lanky segregationist Friday to another six months in prison.

Kasper was sentenced after he and the six co-defendants from the nearby Clinton, Tenn., area had been denied a new trial in their contempt of court convictions arising from racial disorders last year at Clinton.

Defense lawyers immediately announced they would appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Taylor moped the six months in addition to the one year Kasper already is serving for his activities at Clinton. The northern segregationist twice has been convicted of violating Taylor's injunction against interfering with court-ordered integration at Clinton High School.

The judge was easy on the other six, convicted by an all-white jury last July of conspiring with Kasper to violate the injunction. The five men and one woman were placed on probation ranging from one to two years. Maximum penalty was a $1,000 fine and six months in prison.

Seattle's Cavein Area Quiet, Tense

SEATTLE (AP)—All was quiet but tense on Ravenna Boulevard today. A mammoth hole in the center of the big north end street grew no larger.

Engineers said the threat of further caveins remained and probably was growing hourly as crews fought against time to relieve pressure on a broken trunk sewer blamed for causing the big hole.

Still imperiled and abandoned by their owners were 10 homes perched on the rim of the big hole. Their fate rested on completion of a temporary bypass for the sewer before further slides occur.

New French Premier Faces Critical Vote

PARIS (AP)—Just 10 days after he was voted into office to end France's longest postwar cabinet crisis, Premier Felix Gaillard was forced today to demand a vote of confidence to gain approval of financial reforms.

The Assembly is expected to vote Tuesday on Gaillard's proposals to raise taxes and cut expenditures in an effort to lift France out of a financial morass. Observers said Gaillard probably would win.

Gaillard asked for the confidence vote about dawn today after an all-night Assembly session. Earlier in the session he warned that disagreements within the NATO alliance as the raging dispute over arming Tunisia might split up the Atlantic allies.

French anger at U. S. and British shipments of small arms to Tunisia Friday was expected to unite the deputies behind Gaillard because few would be willing to vote out his cabinet during the arms negotiations.

The 38-year-old premier's position also was considered secure because of the fresh memory of the 37-day cabinet crisis which ended Nov. 6. No alternative government is in sight and a defeat for Gaillard, forcing him to resign, would leave France without leadership at a critical time.

God must speak to men. Despite the barriers of language and dialect which separate nation from nation, tribe from tribe—God must speak to men!

This conviction has long inspired the American Bible Society in its stupendous task . . . to translate God's word into every tongue . . . to place the Bible in every hand.

Now in 1,100 tongues God has spoken to men through inspired Scripture. In marble cathedrals and mud huts the same timeless truths are read, heard, taught and discussed in the words men know. And millions of Bibles, Testaments, and portions of Scripture are being placed in eager hands.

This is our triumph . . . and our continuing challenge . . . the countless Christians who, individually and through our churches, make possible the work of the American Bible Society. Thank God! Carry on!

Tiffin Building Cost Below Estimates

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction says it cost $52,000 less than estimated to build a new administration building at Tiffin State Hospital.

Apparent low bids opened Thursday totaled $192,985 against the state estimate of $245,002.

The Hossler Construction Co. of Tiffin was the apparent low bidder on the general construction contract at $142,500.

The new building will replace a smaller structure the department calls inadequate.

COLUMBUS — State Auditor James A. Rhodes has begun a second advance distribution totaling nearly $10 million from 1957 motor vehicle license money. Checks are going to counties, cities and villages.

Cities especially have been calling for the advance to help them meet street department payrolls. The three political subdivisions will split $9,373,482. Counties will

Saucers Out-Mystery Sputnik

The simplest explanation of the new flying saucer sightings is that with the Russians cluttering up space the curious beings up there have come down to find out what's happening. That explanation is plausible because in so many ways it fits the needs of the day.

In the first place it is straight-forward—no hard-to-understand physics or mathematics involved. The space creatures may be rather more luminous and magnetic than those on earth but they have the same sort of neighborliness. When there's an unholy disturbance on the block, they come right down and look into it. Nosy but so far perfectly friendly.

This is also a time when imagination is rushing out—not exactly eagerly—in space and finding it terribly empty. The thought that man may already have lively counterparts up there, less talkative but no less restless than he is, has begun to seem not only pleasant but necessary.

It is a time, too, of humility, at least in this country. This is a healthful change but a difficult one. It is made slightly easier if being caught napping is related to the vast reaches of a vastly populous universe instead of only with respect to the Soviet Union.

Finally there is perhaps a subconscious wish to trim the red moons down to a more commonplace dimension by evoking much more marvelous things that really are magic. In the light of the 200-foot drifting fireball stalling automobiles in Texas, of all places, before shooting up and blinking off, the Sputniks seem like the first y-yos of humanity still in the nursery.

And if so, then it follows that the race is much nearer its beginning than its end.

Today's Prices Much Better?

Sixty years ago prices were much lower in this country. Beef roasts were eight cents a pound. Ladies (widely used as a generic term for women in those days) could get a "cambric undershirt trimmed with tucks, lace inserting and ruffle of lace" for 49 cents.

—Room and board—a good room with meals—could be had in high-priced New York for $5 a week, elsewhere for less. A good tailor made men's suits to order for $15. Eggs were 14 cents a dozen in Chicago.

A dollar would buy more—much more—in those days. The catch is that a dollar was harder to get. A stenographer and typust could earn $7 a week, if experienced, no clock-watcher, and willing to work much longer than 40 hours a week. Skilled ladies' clothing workers might earn as much as $12, with no overtime bonus, workmen's compensation or pension benefits.

These figures are interesting, but what do they actually mean in human terms? An hour's work bought less then, despite low prices, than an hour's work buys now. Materially the country has advanced. But there is no way of computing from these data any coefficient of human happiness and spiritual well-being.

In the things that really matter, are people really better off now?

States Feel Business Pinch

The "leveling off" or "recession" or whatever term is applied to the current economic trend is having effect in some areas not normally considered. One of these is in state revenues.

State tax collections in the year that ended June 20 rose 8 per cent over the previous year, to a new record. In the same period spending rose 15 per cent. This is a general trend, with state debt rising as expenditures outrun revenues. State debts have tripled since 1948.

Then last summer the downturn in tax collections began. States feel the effects of a business fall-off more quickly than the federal government because they depend on such items as sales taxes, production taxes, etc.

Several states already are in trouble and are seeking ways to make up the expected losses if the business trend continues. Among these are Arizona, California, Missouri, Montana, Pennsylvania and others.

The principal aim, in a declining business situation, probably should be economy instead of new taxes. Unfortunately, the possibilities of economy are hard to ferret out without cutting into programs vociferously backed by minorities.

Zhukov, MacArthur Ousters

When Gen. Douglas MacArthur was peremptorily recalled from Japan by Truman, there was full public discussion in the United States followed by a congressional hearing.

This is recalled only to point out the contrast with the dismissal of Marshal Georgi Zhukov of the Soviet Union. There was no preliminary public discussion in Russia, and there will be no publicized official hearing in connection with Zhukov's change of fortune.

Washington, according to reports, had considered inviting Zhukov, former friend of President Eisenhower, for a conference. That might have aroused suspicion of Zhukov in the Soviet hierarchy.

Fundamental upheavals in the Soviet Union's high government ranks are at once promising and menacing. Promising because they may entail weakening internal strife, and menacing because it is uncertain what madness rival dictators will size upon in their convulsions.

Speed Is Essential Weapon

On June 27, 1956, in this column appeared the following paragraphs:

"We have recently witnessed the spectacle of generals and admirals and members of the Cabinet appearing before a Senate committee and announcing to all the world with some detail that the Russians are beating us in the armament race. The country was as much taken by surprise as when it was discovered that the Russians had the atom bomb.

"What is the real explanation for our backwardness? There is no use telling our people that we have taken second place in a field in which the American genius has been foremost, the field of inventiveness and manufacture. What has gone wrong?"

What was said then was true until President Eisenhower announced that he had appointed a missile boss. Why the delay? Why is unification limited to missiles? Why the lack of effective meeting of challenges when they appear?

The weapons of war are rapidly changing but this has always been true between wars. However now another factor has been added, namely, the speed of the change-over. There will be no 18 months delay while our factories tool up and get ready for the great push as there was in World War II. There will be no opportunity to knock out the enemy after he has fought for nearly six years on multiple fronts as we did to Hitler.

The first battle could be the last battle in the next war. The atom and hydrogen bombs delivered from airplanes may already be approaching obsolescence as we move into the era of guided missiles and rockets. The distance between the user of a weapon and the enemy may be as wide as between the Rockies and the Urals. When space is conquered, time disappears and what used to take years might be accomplished in time measured by minutes.

The new weapons are designed to destroy cities which lend themselves to almost automatic destruction because of their complexities. Take, for instance, a city like New York. Underground is a most complex arrangement of arteries: subways, electric light and power cables, telephone cables, water mains, steam pipes, sewers, post office chutes, etc. A weapon which could put these out of commission swiftly would put the city out of commission.

The streets are narrow and over-built by structures which rise to the apex of 102 floors as in the Empire State Building. The falling glass would assist an enemy as much as the fire that is inevitable even from a block-buster.

The problem then is to strike at Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Odessa before the Russians can strike at New York, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh. The essential problem is not only the speed of the weapon but the speed of decision. There can be no time for a prolonged Senate debate nor for a President to make a television speech. There will be time only for decision and action.

BIG DISCUSSION around the pot-bellied stove in Paw Perkins' crossroads grocery a while back. Zeb Smathers declared he didn't expect to plant a single potato this year, seeing as how potato bugs ate up his entire crop last time out in nine days flat.

Wally Harmon sniffed, "You was lucky, Zeb. They et up mine in less than four days!"

Paw Perkins warned the boys that the worst was yet to come. "Couple of potato bugs crawled onto my counter last night," he averred, "and looked over the books to see who had ordered seed for the next planting."

Y., received a letter from an anonymous taxpayer admitting he had cheated on his income tax for three successive years, and was so bothered by his conscience, he couldn't sleep. Baby's Pacifier Approved

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

The baby's pacifier is back. At least, it is now making a comeback.

Several years ago, I distinctly recall writing an article advising against use of a pacifier to keep little Junior quiet and content. That's the way the vast majority of doctors felt about it then.

A little more than a year ago, I wrote another column explaining that some doctors were changing their minds and were recommending use of pacifiers.

Now an article in one of the nation's leading health magazines, "Today's Health," which is published by the American Medical Association, says that many pediatricians and dentists, too, claim the pacifier is better than the baby's own thumb.

For one reason, it's supposed to be cleaner. According to Peter C. Goulding, an American Dental Association staff member, bacteriological studies have shown that pacifiers are actually more sanitary than thumbs.

Moreover, because of their soft texture, pacifiers are less likely than the thumb to force teeth out of position.

There's even a more important reason for permitting infants to use pacifiers. Goulding says kids apparently give up pacifiers earlier and with less trouble than they do thumbsucking. One study showed that 28 children spontaneously gave up the pacifier at an average age of 14 months.

How many three and four-year-olds do you know who still suck their thumbs? There are many.

Children have a basic sucking instinct. Since this apparently is one of the reasons for thumbsucking, the pacifier helps satisfy the need.

All in all, the pacifier now seems to be at least a partial answer to the age-old problem of how to prevent prolonged thumbsucking and the dental disfigurement it often causes.

Question and Answer

H.M.: I have been told I have a heart block. What causes this and what can be done for it?

Answer: A heart block is caused by some damage to the heart muscle which conducts the contracting impulses of the heart. In most cases, it follows a heart attack or some form of clotting of the blood in the blood vessels supplying the heart. Usually the damage is permanent.

What's Behind Big Boom In Sales of Foreign Cars?

By GERALD S. SNYDER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

NEW YORK—What's back of the foreign car boom?

Industry sources here admit to some pretty good reasons, but with General Motors putting its British-built Vauxhall Victor and its West German product, the Opel Rekord, on the market, America's largest auto manufacturer takes a huge step forward in an effort to cash in on the demand that has hurt the lowest-priced American car market.

The move is a significant one. Americans are buying more small cars now than they ever have before and the demand for foreign cars, especially, is increasing.

Last year about 100,000 foreign automobiles were sold in the United States and this year it's estimated that approximately 220,000 of the pint-size cars will be sold.

While this is only four per cent of the expected gross volume of 5,500,000 total car sales, industry officials feel it is indicative of a good market potential for United States auto makers.

Demand for te small cars now exceeds the supply, and importers of many European-made vehicles say they can't get enough to go around.

HEAVIEST of the demand is for the German-made Volkswagen.

The popular little car, manufactured in Wolfsburg, West Germany, at the rate of 1,600 per day, is being sold in 112 different countries throughout the world. An estimated 65,000 are expected to be bought in the United States during 1957.

Sales of British cars in the United States this year have increased well over 100 per cent since 1956. The British Automobile Manufacturer's association reported that 8,300 British cars were shipped to this country in June, making the United States the British car industry's top export customer and setting an all-time monthly high export record.

Britain's small economy sedans such as Austin, English Ford, Hillman, Morris, Nash Metropolitan and Sunbeam Rapier, are all enjoying substantial gains over a year ago.

Reasons for the boom are many. Foreign cars are still comparatively low in price; they boast high fuel mileage, and stay in style longer since major design changes are not made as often as they are on American models. In addition, they're noted for their exceptionally fine maneuverability and parking ease.

Increased sales in foreign cars can in many cases be traced to a family's desire for something different in the way of a second car. Two cars no longer are a symbol of wealth, and the number of two-car families is rising.

Suburban living and larger families, coupled with higher wages and increased installment buying may, in fact, be putting two-car America just around the proverbial corner.

The Universal C.I.T. Credit corporation, the country's largest independent automobile financing company, reports there are now and one-half million two-car ownership families in the United States.

The corporation predicts that the total will jump to seven and one-half million by 1960. It figures, on the basis of 60 million car-owning families by 1960, that the number of two-car families will be 20 per cent of the car owner population—an increase of seven per cent from 1957.

THE DEMAND in America for foreign-made automobiles is mostly for cars in the low-priced field. In this category are the German-made Volkswagen, the German Isotta-300, the Austin A-35 deluxe two-door sedan, the Citroen 2CV, the Renault 4CVL four-door sedan, and the Ford Anglia series.

In announcing that the Vauxhall Victor and Opel Rekord would be sold in the United States, Harlow H. Curtice, president of GM, said the cars would retain those features that are essential in foreign markets, but with advanced and engineering features "which have proven to be highly acceptable in our American products."

A boatload of Volkswagens are unloaded at the port of Baltimore.

Toledo Pupils Elect Negro Grid Queen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Senior class of Scott High School prepared their own test in racial tolerance. They elected a negro football queen. Her attendants were white.

For a time after results of the annual election were announced Monday it appeared the crown would rest heavily on the head of 17-year-old Janet Quinn.

On Tuesday night, an effigy of the queen was hanged from a tree in front of the school.

The following morning, Scott Principal R. J. Langstaff addressed the Scott pupils and instructed teachers to discuss the election in classes.

Then the student council suggested an assembly of Juniors and Seniors. Some 700 pupils met in the auditorium, staying on a half hour after classes normally are dismissed.

"It was a wonderful meeting," said Langstaff. "The kids apologized to each other for the things they had said. About 30 or 40 of

"We have recently witnessed the spectacle of generals and admirals and members of the Cabinet appearing before a Senate committee and announcing to all the world with some detail that the Russians are beating us in the armament race. The country was as much taken by surprise as when it was discovered that the Russians had the atom bomb.

"What is the real explanation for our backwardness? There is no use telling our people that we have taken second place in a field in which the American genius has been foremost, the field of inventiveness and manufacture. What has gone wrong?"

What was said then was true until President Eisenhower announced that he had appointed a missile boss. Why the delay? Why is unification limited to missiles? Why the lack of effective meeting of challenges when they appear?

The weapons of war are rapidly changing but this has always been true between wars. However now another factor has been added, namely, the speed of the change-over. There will be no 18 months delay while our factories tool up and get ready for the great push as there was in World War II. There will be no opportunity to knock out the enemy after he has fought for nearly six years on multiple fronts as we did to Hitler.

The first battle could be the last battle in the next war. The atom and hydrogen bombs delivered from airplanes may already be approaching obsolescence as we move into the era of guided missiles and rockets. The distance between the user of a weapon and the enemy may be as wide as between the Rockies and the Urals. When space is conquered, time disappears and what used to take years might be accomplished in time measured by minutes.

The new weapons are designed to destroy cities which lend themselves to almost automatic destruction because of their complexities. Take, for instance, a city like New York. Underground is a most complex arrangement of arteries: subways, electric light and power cables, telephone cables, water mains, steam pipes, sewers, post office chutes, etc. A weapon which could put these out of commission swiftly would put the city out of commission.

The streets are narrow and over-built by structures which rise to the apex of 102 floors as in the Empire State Building. The falling glass would assist an enemy as much as the fire that is inevitable even from a block-buster.

The problem then is to strike at Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Odessa before the Russians can strike at New York, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh. The essential problem is not only the speed of the weapon but the speed of decision. There can be no time for a prolonged Senate debate nor for a President to make a television speech. There will be time only for decision and action.

In a word, we have to revise all our ideas on the organization of our affairs. What we have always had in American history is no longer available to us. That is time. The clocks are spinning too swiftly for our habits and we shall have to change our ways if we mean to remain in the race.

The Eisenhower Administration has been too slow perhaps because of the President's assumption that he might some day work out something with Soviet Russia, perhaps through Marshal Zhukov. In this error of judgment, he was undoubtedly supported by government experts who have too rarely been right about Russia, as the record shows.

The Zhukov phase of our official thinking ought to be over now. At any rate, there can be no meeting in Washington between comrades-in-arms who will introduce a diplomatic conversation by a recital of the good, old days when they fought the Nazi. Zhukov is now in no position to talk to Eisenhower.

Therefore, President Eisenhower might just as well give up the theory that he will find a way to Khrushchev's heart; he will not because Khrushchev

BIG DISCUSSION around the pot-bellied stove in Paw Perkins' crossroads grocery a while back. Zeb Smathers declared he didn't expect to plant a single potato this year, seeing as how potato bugs ate up his entire crop last time out in nine days flat.

Wally Harmon sniffed, "You was lucky, Zeb. They et up mine in less than four days!"

Paw Perkins warned the boys that the worst was yet to come. "Couple of potato bugs crawled onto my counter last night," he averred, "and looked over the books to see who had ordered seed for the next planting."

Baby's Pacifier Approved

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

The baby's pacifier is back. At least, it is now making a comeback.

Several years ago, I distinctly recall writing an article advising against use of a pacifier to keep little Junior quiet and content. That's the way the vast majority of doctors felt about it then.

A little more than a year ago, I wrote another column explaining that some doctors were changing their minds and were recommending use of pacifiers.

Now an article in one of the nation's leading health magazines, "Today's Health," which is published by the American Medical Association, says that many pediatricians and dentists, too, claim the pacifier is better than the baby's own thumb.

For one reason, it's supposed to be cleaner. According to Peter C. Goulding, an American Dental Association staff member, bacteriological studies have shown that pacifiers are actually more sanitary than thumbs.

Moreover, because of their soft texture, pacifiers are less likely than the thumb to force teeth out of position.

There's even a more important reason for permitting infants to use pacifiers. Goulding says kids apparently give up pacifiers earlier and with less trouble than they do thumbsucking. One study showed that 28 children spontaneously gave up the pacifier at an average age of 14 months.

How many three and four-year-olds do you know who still suck their thumbs? There are many.

Children have a basic sucking instinct. Since this apparently is one of the reasons for thumbsucking, the pacifier helps satisfy the need.

All in all, the pacifier now seems to be at least a partial answer to the age-old problem of how to prevent prolonged thumbsucking and the dental disfigurement it often causes.

Question and Answer

H.M.: I have been told I have a heart block. What causes this and what can be done for it?

Answer: A heart block is caused by some damage to the heart muscle which conducts the contracting impulses of the heart. In most cases, it follows a heart attack or some form of clotting of the blood in the blood vessels supplying the heart. Usually the damage is permanent.

What's Behind Big Boom In Sales of Foreign Cars?

By GERALD S. SNYDER
Central Press association
Correspondent

NEW YORK—What's back of the foreign car boom?

Industry sources here admit to some pretty good reasons, but with General Motors putting its British-built Vauxhall Victor and its West German product, the Opel Rekord, on the market, America's largest auto manufacturer takes a huge step forward in an effort to cash in on the demand that has hurt the lowest-priced American car market.

The move is a significant one. Americans are buying more small cars now than they ever have before and the demand for foreign cars, especially, is increasing.

Last year about 100,000 foreign automobiles were sold in the United States and this year it's estimated that approximately 220,000 of the pint-size cars will be sold.

While this is only four per cent of the expected gross volume of 5,500,000 total car sales, industry officials feel it is indicative of a good market potential for United States auto makers.

Demand for te small cars now exceeds the supply, and importers of many European-made vehicles say they can't get enough to go around.

HEAVIEST OF the demand is for the German-made Volkswagen.

The popular little car, manufactured in Wolfsburg, West Germany, at the rate of 1,600 per day, is being sold in 112 different countries throughout the world. An estimated 65,000 are expected to be bought in the United States during 1957.

Sales of British cars in the United States this year have increased well over 100 per cent since 1956. The British Automobile Manufacturer's association reported that 8,300 British cars were shipped to this country in June, making the United States the British car industry's top export customer and setting an all-time monthly high export record.

Britain's small economy sedans such as Austin, English Ford, Hillman, Morris, Nash Metropolitan and Sunbeam Rapier, are all enjoying substantial gains over a year ago.

Reasons for the boom are many. Foreign cars are still comparatively low in price; they boast high fuel mileage, and stay in style longer since major design changes are not made as often as they are on American models. In addition, they're noted for their exceptionally fine maneuverability and parking ease.

Increased sales in foreign cars can in many cases be traced to a family's desire for something different in the way of a second car. Two cars no longer are a symbol of wealth, and the number of two-car families is rising.

Suburban living and larger families, coupled with higher wages and increased installment buying may, in fact, be putting two-car America just around the proverbial corner.

The Universal C.I.T. Credit corporation, the country's largest independent automobile financing company, reports there are now and one-half million two-car ownership families in the United States.

The corporation predicts that the total will jump to seven and one-half million by 1960. It figures, on the basis of 60 million car-owning families by 1960, that the number of two-car families will be 20 per cent of the car owner population—an increase of seven per cent from 1957.

THE DEMAND in America for foreign-made automobiles is mostly for cars in the low-priced field. In this category are the German-made Volkswagen, the German Isotta-300, the Austin A-35 deluxe two-door sedan, the Citroen 2CV, the Renault 4CVL four-door sedan, and the Ford Anglia series.

In announcing that the Vauxhall Victor and Opel Rekord would be sold in the United States, Harlow H. Curtice, president of GM, said the cars would retain those features that are essential in foreign markets, but with advanced and engineering features "which have proven to be highly acceptable in our American products."

A boatload of Volkswagens are unloaded at the port of Baltimore.

Toledo Pupils Elect Negro Grid Queen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Senior class of Scott High School prepared their own test in racial tolerance. They elected a negro football queen. Her attendants were white.

For a time after results of the annual election were announced Monday it appeared the crown would rest heavily on the head of 17-year-old Janet Quinn.

On Tuesday night, an effigy of the queen was hanged from a tree in front of the school. The following morning, Scott Principal R. J. Langstaff addressed the Scott pupils and instructed teachers to discuss the election in classes.

Then the student council suggested an assembly of Juniors and Seniors. Some 700 pupils met in the auditorium, staying on a half hour after classes normally are dismissed.

"It was a wonderful meeting," said Langstaff. "The kids apologized to each other for the things they had said. About 30 or 40 of them spoke up and nothing was said that wasn't harmonious."

A considerable portion of the precipitation predicted for the western lake region, Northern Plains, and Rocky Mountain area is expected to be in the form of snow."

Langstaff said the election of Janet Quinn was a "shock" to the students because it had more social implications than the election of a negro student council president last year. Scott's enrollment of 1,650 is about half negro and half white. The senior class is 60 per cent white.

Berger Hospital General Guild Bazaar Big Success

Broad smiles wreathed the faces of Berger Hospital General Guild President Mrs. H. N. Stevenson and her Bazaar chairmen Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mrs. Milton Patterson about 4 p. m. Friday.

The annual Christmas Bazaar had proved a real success. Held for the first time in the lobby of the American Hotel on N. Court St., customers arrived even before the opening time to put in bids for the tempting baked goods to go on sale at 9:30 a. m.

A steady stream of buyers came during the day until bazaar wares were completely gone.

The general guild president and her co-chairmen expressed their gratitude for the cooperation of the entire guild and especially for the help given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mason, owners of the New American Hotel.

Working together to make the bazaar a success were members of the special committee, Miss Mary Virginia Crites, Mrs. John Bowers, Mrs. Jasper Hedges and Mrs. David Orr.

Mrs. Larry Goeller, chairman of publicity, started the ball rolling weeks ago when she initiated the poster contest among the fifth and sixth grade school children.

Guild exhibits were judged about 10:30 a. m.

Winning first prize (having the guild number inscribed on the plaque which hangs in Berger Hospital) were Guilds 35 and 36. Their displays were exhibited jointly. As a background felt Christmas stockings and colorful dusting mitts were displayed on the paneled windows of the Hotel. Their table was covered with a skirted black covering highlighted with Christmas bows and ornaments. Mrs. Nat Lefko and Mrs. John Beck are bazaar chairmen for these guilds.

Guild 31 received second place. Mrs. Eugene Barthelmas is bazaar chairman. The large table was covered with a white skirted cloth. On one end a small styrofoam be-spangled Christmas tree was displayed. Felt toys and Christmas tree ornaments which were later sold were on exhibit. As a background the Christmas aprons were placed on a drying rack.

Honorable mention went to Guild 27 whose chairman was Mrs. Robert Christy. A silver covered screen was the background used to display the articles for sale. Guild 27 had red covering for their tables on which dolls, tallies, place mats and bookmarks were exhibited.

Guild 15 sold aprons. The aprons were hung by clothes pins on a clothes line against a dark green screen. Their table skirted with flourishes of crepe paper was highlighted with the aprons they had for sale. Mrs. David Gillis and Mrs. John Lewis were responsible for the bazaar decorations. This guild also won an honorable mention.

Deers Explode For 93-60 Win Over Monroe

Williamsport found the range last night to down the Indians of Monroe, 93-60, in a county league contest at Williamsport.

The Deers jumped off to a 24-10 first quarter lead and were never headed from that point on. The halftime score was 44-31 and 65-41 at the end of the third period.

Max Reeser and Dave Myers combined forces for a deadly point-making barrage. Reeser collected 27 markers on 12 baskets and three foul tosses and Myers hit for eight field goals and 10 charity tosses.

Humphrey and James each posted 16 markers, giving the Deers four men in double figures.

FULEN was high man for Monroe with 24 tallies, the result of nine baskets and six foul throws. Williamsport won a triple-header for the evening, posting a 45-25 victory in the reserve contest and a 38-32 decision in the junior high game.

Maryland '11' Romps To Win over Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A brilliant passing attack by Quarterback Bob Rusevlyan was the difference as underdog Maryland romped to a 16-6 victory over Miami's Hurricanes Friday night.

Notre Dame has been playing football for 69 seasons.

Chillicothe 5 Halts Kingston

Chillicothe Central Catholic broke the two game winning streak of the Kingston Redskins with a 72 to 43 victory by virtue of a 46 point first half. Kingston tallied 19 the first two quarters. Chillicothe raced to a giant lead in the first period, tripling the score on Kingston, 24 to 8. In the second period they doubled the score on the Redskins 22 to 11, as Krauser led the way.

With this 27 point lead Central Catholic began easing up and started using its reserves as Kingston outscored them in the third period 15 to 12. This closed the margin just three points and Chillicothe maintained an unsurmountable lead, 58 to 34.

The Catholics wrapped up the game in good fashion by outpointing the Redskins five points in the final quarter.

Krauser led the Chillicothe attack with 21 points. Carper paced Kingston with 12 points.

Knapp's Shooting Leads Scioto To 79-56 Win Over Saltcreek

By J. I. SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

The stampeding Buffaloes of Scioto trampled Saltcreek last night on the Scioto court, 79 to 56. Roger Knapp led a hot Scioto five with 37 points.

The Buffaloes led from the start, getting six points before Saltcreek could score. The winners never allowed the Warriors to get closer than eight points after two minutes and 57 seconds were left in the first quarter.

Scioto started out as if they meant business by dropping in six straight points before Valentine scored for the Warriors with a hook shot. The teams then battled evenly with Saltcreek closing the gap, 12 total.

With three minutes left in the first quarter Scioto held Saltcreek scoreless as they dropped in eight points to lead at the end of the first period, 20 to 11. Saltcreek suffered the loss of Valentine for these last three minutes as he injured his ankle and was removed to the locker room.

VALENTINE returned to the line-up at the start of the second quarter, but to no avail, as Scioto increased their lead to 14 points by halftime.

This second period was marked by some rough play from both teams as the Buffaloes began working the ball into the bucket with success. Saltcreek was handicapped by missing several clear shots.

Jordan was able to score easily and keep Saltcreek in the game, but the lid seemed to drop on the bucket when any of his teammates tried to score. Scioto's teamwork paid off and they led at the end of the second quarter, 36 to 22.

The tables turned in the third period as Saltcreek began making a game of it, outscoring 17 to 11 and narrowing the score to

If Opposing Gridder Cusses, Sooner Just Hits Him Harder

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma football guard Bill Krisher always hits an opponent hard—but he puts a little extra effort behind it when an opposing player uses foul language.

Krisher says he's a Christian and such language doesn't belong on the football field.

His remedy: "I smile, say a little prayer for the guy and hit him harder."

"I never try to hurt an opponent. And I never have trouble holding my Christian composure. But words like that don't make a football player better, or accomplish anything."

Krisher said it isn't often players use profane language in a game, "but sometimes when you're down 30 or 40 points, your pride starts hurting."

All-America candidate Krisher is a leader of Oklahoma's "praying" Sooners. They've helped bring the prayer session to college football.

Coach Bud Wilkinson and his team usually have three prayers at every game—before it starts, at the half, and when it's over.

"We never pray for victory. We let that take care of itself. We do pray that both teams can play their best," said the burr-headed guard.

Krisher said OU's praying "makes the team have unity. You feel better when you do it. Most of our players would pray, even if the team didn't as a group." Oklahoma's athletic department greatly emphasizes religion. "The first thing the coaches ask an athlete when he comes here," Krisher said, "is, 'Do you know where your denomination's church is located?'"

Krisher, halfback Clendon Thomas and a dozen teammates are members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and speak to youth groups, civic clubs and church organizations.

When football season isn't on, Krisher and Thomas often fill church pulpits on Sundays.

Wrong-Way Jaunt Costs Team Defeat

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Paramount High School's Jan Banringa intercepted a pass in the second quarter Friday night and sprinted 55 yards to the end zone—the wrong end zone.

In the third period, Banringa intercepted another pass and ran 25 yards to the end zone—this time the right one.

But his wrong-way jaunt (which went as a safety and cost his team two points) decided the game. Final: Centennial 9, Paramount 7.

Laurelville Cagers Stop Rockbridge

Laurelville continued its winning ways last night with a league victory over Rockbridge, 47 to 40. This gives the Wildcats a 3-0 record and a brighter outlook on their basketball success for the 1957-58 season.

The game started slow and remained at this pace for the entire four periods, as indicated by the score. Laurelville led, 8-6, at the end of the first quarter and was never behind.

The halftime score read, 22-

16, in favor of the Wildcats as teamwork paid off for Laurelville. Realizing no one man was hot, the winners worked the ball in and made sure of their shots.

Laurelville led 33-28 at the end of the third quarter and sewed up the game with a 14 point spurge in the fourth period against Rockbridge's 12 points.

Laurelville reserves made the evening complete with a 33-19 victory. Tommy Wiggins almost outscored the entire Rockbridge team as he gathered 16 points. Teammate Ray Hart tallied 13.

Deers Explode For 93-60 Win Over Monroe

Williamsport found the range last night to down the Indians of Monroe, 93-60, in a county league contest at Williamsport.

Max Reeser and Dave Myers combined forces for a deadly point-making barrage. Reeser collected 27 markers on 12 baskets and three foul tosses and Myers hit for eight field goals and 10 charity tosses.

Humphrey and James each posted 16 markers, giving the Deers four men in double figures.

FULLEN was high man for Monroe with 24 tallies, the result of nine baskets and six foul throws. Williamsport won a triple-header for the evening, posting a 45-25 victory in the reserve contest and a 38-32 decision in the junior high game.

Antarctica Only 60 Hours Away by Air

This type plane made epochal flight to Antarctica.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO — Antarctica, the northernmost part of the globe, is hardly more than 60 hours away from almost any point in the United States.

This latest earth-shrinking exercise was done by the first commercial flight to "the bottom of the world," which took off from here at 10:30 p. m. on a Saturday morning and arrived two days later in 15 degrees-below-zero temperature on a 6,000-foot ice runway at the United States naval air facility at McMurdo Sound, only 850 miles from the South Pole.

You cannot yet buy a routine ticket for such a trip, but the 37 passengers of the epochal first flight who assembled here from "points east," and included civilian technicians along with officers and men of the Antarctic Mobile Construction Battalion (Sea Bees) demonstrated what may become the world's most adventuresome highway.

It was all part of the International Geophysical Year, and Pan American Airways diverted one of its two-level stratojets and a crack crew from its Alaska run to make the 9,700-mile flight one of the most routine "firsts" in aviation history.

It is not known when another such flight will be booked, but the stratojet now plies the routes between here and Hawaii, so that it could be scheduled on it at virtually a moment's notice. The same type of plane has been flying routinely to the Orient for years, and now is one of the regular Chicago-New York runs.

THE PASSENGERS on such a flight are made dizzy by the huge area covered and the calendar complications introduced by crossing the international date line "the wrong way," making it seem as though you arrive a day later than actually and return a day early.

Four fueling stops were made en route. The pioneer flight was in Honolulu by supertanker, and at Canton Island in mid-Pacific shortly after midnight.

By breakfast time on the day after departure they put down at Nandi in the Fiji Islands, although a whole day had been "lost" by crossing the dateline.

When it was time for their second supper out, the giant plane was landing at Christchurch, New Zealand, and preparations were in full swing to service the ship for its final leg of 2,374 miles to McMurdo, nine and one-half flying hours away.

Four sets of crews pilot the craft on such a schedule, and on the final hitch Pan Am assigned two men with years of experience flying in Arctic conditions: Capt. Ralph Savory of Seattle, chief pilot for the airline in Alaska, who was in command, and Capt. Donald L. McLennan, who piloted Clippers throughout Alaska during the war and made a number of landings on snow-packed runways at Point Barrow, second in command.

Stewardesses Patricia Hepin-Holmes of Holyoke, Colo., and Ruth

Kelly, Houston, Tex., were the first woman ever to fly into Antarctica and an amazing and delightful sight to the 83 men at McMurdo who hadn't seen a woman in six to 18 months. They broke a record by being closer to the South Pole than any women in history before, including some Soviet women who landed earlier in Antarctica by boat.

After only four hours the big twin-level craft was in the air again, stewardesses and all, but to the men staffing the seven IGY posts the Antarctica of Scott and Amundsen had lost much of its remoteness. Home is now only hours away, not by special aircraft but via routine commercial airliners.

IGY officials point out, however, that the relative novelty of this first commercial flight to Antarctica accentuates the difference between the "top" and the "bottom" of the world insofar as being opened up to the outside world is concerned, because already regular commercial flights have been crisscrossing the North Pole on schedule for several years.

Ex-Ohio Solon, Bob Secrest, Says He Could Be Governor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Rep. Robert T. Secrest, Democrat, believes that if he should run for governor of Ohio next year he would have "an excellent chance" of winning.

That, he hastens to add, does not mean he will run. On the contrary, he says, "the chances are I won't."

A former congressman from southeast Ohio, Secrest has been a member of the Federal Trade Commission for the last three years.

Four years remain of his term, but lately there has been some speculation in Ohio whether he might make a try for the gubernatorial nomination.

"I've had about 150 letters from people who think I should run," Secrest said. "They're from people all over the state, but none from Cleveland or Cincinnati."

"But I'm no rip-roaring candidate. On the other hand, I haven't shut any doors."

Now as to why he thinks he would have a good chance of winning, Secrest points to his record of attracting Republican votes in his eight successful campaigns for Congress.

Cold figures back him up on this, too, but only with respect to his own district. For example, he ran 3,000 votes ahead of President Eisenhower in 1952.

This district is made up of Guernsey, Monroe, Morgan, Muskingum, Noble, Perry and Washington counties, and is about as Republican as you can get. In fact, it was the only district in Ohio carried by President Herbert Hoover in 1932.

Whether Secrest could run well as a state-wide candidate—in the manner of former governor, now Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio)—is something still to be proved. Secrest will tell you frankly that he would rather be governor than an FTC commissioner, but he would prefer his present job to making another try for Congress.

Much as he would like to be governor, however, Secrest says there are several circumstances that make his candidacy unlikely. "For one thing," he said, "there is a question of funds. You don't run for governor just out of your own pocket, you know."

"As for my present job, I don't think there is any more important one in Washington—unless it is a fellow developing a sputnik."

Subconscious TV Ad Gimmick Rapped

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—The National Assn. of Radio & Television Broadcasters code review board for TV has asked stations not to use a method that flashes commercials to the viewers' subconscious.

The idea has created quite a furor. Don Martin, assistant to the president of NARTB, said that by this method a message is flashed at 1/3000th of a second, and repeated every five seconds during the showing of a movie. He said the viewer does not even see the message, or at least is not conscious of seeing it, but it does reach his brain.

The attorney then walked out of court to his own car only to find that police had towed it away for a parking violation.

Marylanders Wage War To Keep Nation's First Warship, Doughty Constellation

By DEANE and DAVID HELLER

BALTIMORE — Civic-minded citizens here are sponsoring a nation-wide campaign to raise $2 million to restore the first ship of our fighting navy, the "USS Constellation," and early support gained in their campaign makes them optimistic that the goal will be reached.

In the nautically-minded state of Maryland, home of the Naval Academy, the sad state of America's first fighting ship has long been a subject of sorrow. The Constellation committee was formed and the campaign is the result.

A collection cannister is being placed in every Maryland school-room and youngsters of the Free State are among the first to contribute to the nation-wide drive.

The "Constellation" was launched 160 years ago, in 1797, in Baltimore. Her crew was mostly Maryland farm boys. The rugged old vessel was a masterpiece of construction, perhaps partly because her skipper, Capt. Thomas Truxton, inspected every piece of wood that went into the vessel.

Robert E. Michel, general manager of the campaign fund, declares that at least 35 per cent of the ship's timbers are original. Her iron ballast may still be seen in the hull.

NOT AS WELL known as her sister ship, the "USS Constitution" ("Old Ironsides"), the "Constellation" was, however, the first commissioned fighting ship of the Navy.

Only two years after her launching she scored her first victory. Sailing the Atlantic, on the morning of Feb. 9, 1799, she caught sight of the French frigate "L'Insurgente" — an enemy in the vicious, undeclared war of the period in which French vessels preyed upon American shipping.

The "L'Insurgente" was larger than the "Constellation," but the fearless U. S. crew attacked anyway, with all 44 guns blazing. Performing the difficult naval maneuver, "crossing the T," the "Constellation" placed herself in position to rake the French frigate from stern to stern. By three o'clock of the afternoon, the enemy ship was a battered wreck.

Truxton was shortly promoted to be a commodore, but he retained command of the gallant vessel. The next year she engaged the French vessel "La Vengeance," and despite a shattered mainmast, drove "La Vengeance" away. Two years after that, in the War Against the Barbary Pirates, the "Constellation" returned — rot-

Antarctica Only 60 Hours Away by Air

This type plane made epochal flight to Antarctica.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO — Antarctica, the northernmost part of the globe, is hardly more than 60 hours away from almost any point in the United States.

This latest earth-shrinking exercise was done by the first commercial flight to "the bottom of the world," which took off from here at 10:30 p. m. on a Saturday morning and arrived two days later in 15 degrees below-zero temperature on a 6,000-foot ice runway at the United States naval air facility at McMurdo Sound, only 850 miles from the South Pole.

You cannot yet buy a routine ticket for such a trip, but the 37 passengers of the epochal first flight who assembled here from "points east," and included civilian technicians along with officers and men of the Antarctic Mobile Construction Battalion (Sea Bees) demonstrated what may become the world's most adventuresome highway.

It was all part of the International Geophysical Year, and Pan American Airways diverted one of its two-level stratojets and a crack crew from its Alaska run to make the 9,700-mile flight one of the most routine "firsts" in aviation history.

It is not known when another such flight will be booked, but the stratojet now flies the routes between here and Hawaii, so that
